

Zero, First, and Second Conditionals

The zero conditional is used when something is always true. The present tense is used in both halves of the sentence.

Fill in the correct form of the verb.

- 1) If I pass an exam, I _____ happy. (be)
- 2) She always _____ an ibuprofen (take), if she _____ a headache. (have)
- 3) If the weather _____ (be) bad, I _____ (not/go) out.
- 4) They call their friends, if they _____ bored. (be)
- 5) If he _____ (not/go) to sleep early, he _____ (wake) up late.

The first conditional is used to predict something will happen. The “if” half of the sentence uses the present tense. The other half uses will+the infinitive. The “if” and the “will” are never together

Match the sentence halves.
