Character Compare and Contrast – Bluey

When we compare we look at

When we contrast we look at

Which of these terms are conjunctions or connectors of comparison?

Which of these terms are conjunctions or connectors of contrast?

Which of these conjunctions and connectors are used to add more information?

Add conjunctions and connectors to complete the compare and contrast paragraph on Bluey's character in the cartoon and short story.

Bluey is the main character in the short story and the cartoon, she has some differences. Bluey looks the same has a very different personality. In the short story, Bluey is a young female. The author does not give us any more details about her appearance. We know that Bluey is anxious and worried about going to the creek. In the novel it says that Bluey walked towards the creek with Mackenzie and smiled. the cartoon we know that Bluey is a young female. , from the images we can see that she is young is a blue dog with spots.
the short story, Bluey has similar personality in the cartoon. , we can also see that Bluey is determined. She says repeatedly that the creek is not scary. This is how she overcomes her fear. The cartoon uses closeups of her expressions and she squeals to show her anxiety. The squeals and her high-pitched voice make Bluey cute more loveable. of this, most prefer the cartoon over the novel.

LIVEWORKSHEETS