

complete the following diagram about TESTS determining the intelligence of agents an agent is intelligent the questioner should not be able to determine which respondent is an agent. Here is a diagram representing the Turing test:

The Marcus test is done by providing a television show as input to an agent. The agent is then tested by evaluating the responses it gives from meaningful questions about the show's content. This test aims to evaluate an agent's ability to demonstrate human traits such as empathy.

Tests Determining
intelligence of agents

Turing Test

Markus Test