

Food Idioms – Complete the text with the correct idiom

a piece of cake      with a grain of salt      walking on eggshells      sweet tooth sell like hotcakes      spill the beans      brought home the bacon      full of beans cry over spilled milk

Once upon a time in a quaint little town, there lived a young baker named Oliver. Oliver had always dreamed of opening his bakery, and he knew it wouldn't be . It would take hard work, dedication, and, of course, the perfect recipe for success.

His dream was to have a bakery that would . He had a secret ingredient for his pastries that made them unique and irresistible.

One day, a food critic named Emily visited Oliver's town. She had heard about his bakery, and Oliver's excitement was almost palpable. He wanted to impress her and hoped she wouldn't take his creations .

As Emily entered the bakery, the aroma of freshly baked bread and pastries filled the air. She tried one of Oliver's famous almond croissants, and it was so delicious that she wanted to about how fantastic it was.

Oliver eagerly awaited the critic's review. He knew that her words could make or break his dream. He was until her article was published.

Finally, the day arrived when the local newspaper featured Emily's review. The headline read, "Oliver's Bakery: A Hidden Gem." The article described Oliver's pastries as and "the best in town." The town's residents rushed to his bakery to taste the treats that had impressed the renowned critic.

With tears of joy in his eyes, Oliver realized that his dream had come true.

He had not only for his family but also become the talk of the town. He knew that he couldn't about the challenges he had faced on his journey to success.

And so, Oliver's bakery thrived, and he continued to satisfy the of everyone in the town.