The Grand Hotel Mystery

I was staying at the Grand Hotel. One afternoon, I [1]was/had been very tired because I [2]had/had had a very busy morning. After lunch, I [3]went/had gone back to my room and [4]went/had gone to sleep.

I [5]was/had been asleep for an hour or so when I [6]heard/had heard a knock at the door.

Before I could say anything, a woman [7]walked/had walked into my room. She [8]saw/had seen I was there, and quickly apologised. She said she [9]made/had made a mistake and that she [10]thought/had thought it was her room. She [11]left/had left in a hurry.

Suddenly, I [12]realised/had realised that the woman [13]lied/had lied to me! I [14]called/had called the police to report her. They [15]arrested/had arrested her later that day after discovering that she [16]stole/had stolen some jewellery from another room at the same hotel.

The police asked me how I knew that the thief [17]didn't make/hadn't made a mistake when she came into my room. Can you work it out?
