Noor is learning about using computational tools to collect data.

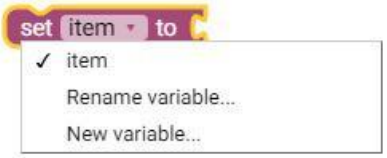

1. Create a block-based program to measure the temperature using a microcontroller,

LED grid and temperature sensor component, then execute the program.

to create a new variable, we use:

to change the name of the variable, we use

to store the temperature value in a variable, we use:

to output the temperature value, we use:

LIVEWORKSHEETS