Passage 1: Read the passage, and choose True or False. If it is True mark A. If it is False mark B.

A NEW LIFE

I came here to work. It's really easy to get a job in computing because there are so many tech companies here and wages are high. I've lived here for five years now. I love it.

I don't miss anything about my country. People here are very relaxed and open and I get on very well with my neighbours. We don't have long, dark, cold winters here - it's warm all year round. But if I want snow, I can go to the mountains and I can still watch ice hockey here. The only problem is, it's difficult to find time to do those things because I work long hours.

Before I came here, I heard crime was bad and that the health system was expensive, but I haven't had any problems. In big cities, it can be dangerous to walk at night and there's gun violence, but in my small town I've never seen anything like that. I don't always lock my front door and no-one has ever stolen anything. As for the health system, the service is expensive, but my company provides health insurance, so I've had no problems when I've needed treatment.

- .....21. The writer moved to this place to get a good job.
- .....22. The winters where the writer is living are very long.
- .....23. The writer has to work a lot.
- .....24. It's very safe where the writer is living.
- .....25. The writer has some problems with health system.

GREAT TRAIN JOURNEYS

Andes Experience

The journey starts with a trip to Machu Picchu. On the way you stop in some beautiful villages. You can do some shopping there before you continue to Machu Picchu, the Lost City of the Incas, high in the Andes. You have four hours to enjoy the views and then you carry on to Cuzco, the ancient capital of the Inca Empire. On day two you set off early. As the train climbs slowly to 4,000m, you can relax in your armchair and enjoy the beautiful scenery of the Andes. After a short stop in La Raya, it's time for lunch. You arrive in Puno, the end of your journey, on Lake Titicaca, at around 6pm.
