

Moving someone or something from one place to another by vehicle.

A stick (bar) that connects the wheels and they revolve around it.

One of many small bars that go from the center of the wheel to support the rim.

To move, or make someone or something move, from one place to another.

A simple machine with teeth that changes the force needed to push or pull something

To crush something into very small pieces or powder.

Noun: a thin, straight piece of wood or metal.

Noun: the scientific knowledge and/or equipment that is needed for a particular industry.

Noun: the force that stops something, for example the wheels of vehicle, from sliding on the ground.

Verb: to pull or drag something with great effort.

Noun: an edge at the top or outside of something that is round.

Verb: to turn circles around a central point; to make something do this.