

The World's Weirdest Food

True or False

TRUE

FALSE

- 1) Haggis is a famous Scottish dish made from sheep's stomach.
- 2) Brain sandwiches are still commonly eaten in many parts of the USA.
- 3) In some places, people eat insects because they are a good source of important nutrients.
- 4) Sushi and Sannakji are both made from raw fish, but Sannakji is different because the seafood is still alive.
- 5) Fugu is a type of fish that can be dangerous if not prepared correctly.
- 6) Casu Marzu is a cheese from France that is known for its strong smell.

☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐

Match each food with the country it is associated with

Haggis

Brain Sandwiches

Insects

Casu Marzu

Hakarl

Sannakji

Fugu

|                             |  |
|-----------------------------|--|
| Korea                       |  |
| Asia, Africa, South America |  |
| Iceland                     |  |
| Scotland                    |  |
| Italy                       |  |
| Japan                       |  |
| United States of America    |  |

Choose the correct answers

- 1) Where can you find fried brains served on hamburger buns?
- 2) Why do some people eat insects in certain places?
- 3) What is the unique feature of Sannakji?
- 4) What makes Fugu special in Japan?
- 5) What makes Casu Marzu cheese unique?