

Cindy

Cindy loves animals. Cindy likes to help at the animal shelter. She talks to the animals. She feeds them. Sometimes Cindy sees a homeless dog or cat on the street. Sometimes she finds small kittens and puppies or birds that can't fly. She takes them all to the animal shelter.

Cindy is going to the animal shelter today. She is talking to her friend on her cell phone now.

Cindy: Hi, Candy. What are you doing? I am going to the animal shelter now.

Candy: What are you going to do there today?

Cindy: I am going to phone people and send them faxes and e-mails. I will ask them to help find good homes for the homeless puppies and kittens.

Candy: That's cool! Maybe I can come to the shelter and help, too.

Cindy: OK. Oh, no! Candy! I see something awful. I am near a red car and there are two dogs in it. The windows are not open. It is very hot. There is nobody in the car! The dogs are hot! This is not good! Help! Police! Free the dogs! Free the dogs!

Candy: Cindy! What is happening?

Cindy: Oh! It is OK now. The driver is here. He says the dogs are toys for his children. My face is so red! I made a silly mistake.
