So... that / Such... that

1. Look at the examples below.

| So + adjective + that | Such + noun phrase + that |
|---|---|
| AI is so interesting that everyone wants to know more about it. | AI is such an interesting topic that everyone wants to know more about it. |
| Sofia is so lifelike that some people think she is a girl. | Sofia is such a lifelike robot that people think she is a girl. |
| Robots are so helpful that they are used in nursing homes. | Robots can be such useful helpers that they are used in nursing homes. |

2. Fill in the gaps with so, such a or such an.

a) Robots are _____ affectionate that all children love them.

b) Noisy machines can be _____ problem at home that people avoid having them.

c) This is _____ big challenge that I cannot refuse it.

d) Some computers can be _____ intelligent that they look human.

e) The field of robotics is _____ interesting field that it has attracted lots of teens.

f) Robots can be _____ useful machines that they can replace several appliances at home or at work.

3. Join the pairs of sentences using so or such.

a) AI is an interesting area. I would like to study it.

-------------------------------------------------------------

b) The robot was impressive. Everyone wanted to have one.

-------------------------------------------------------------

c) Robots are expensive. I will never be able to afford one.

-------------------------------------------------------------

d) In the TV commercial Sofia was sweet. Cristiano Ronaldo got very emotional.

-------------------------------------------------------------

e) Home automation is a challenging field. It has fully changed our homes.

-------------------------------------------------------------

f) Virtual reality headsets are popular. They were the most popular gift last Christmas.