Listening activity:

First impressions are the almost-instant conclusions we draw when meeting someone for the first time, and usually those conclusions prove wrong. Let's watch this video about the story behind a school janitor. Then, do the activity.

1- What message does Steve Hartman want viewers to take away from the story?

a- Don't make assumptions about people based on first impressions.

b- Maury Forrester is a highly trained electromechanical designer.

c -Coulter Grove Intermediate School is located near Knoxville, Tennessee.

d -The students at the school love Maury Forrester.

2-What was Maury Forrester's role in the Saturn and Apollo programs?

a- He worked for NASA as an astronaut.

b- He designed crucial launch components.

c- He supervised the team that put a man on the moon.

d- He received numerous certificates and awards.

3- Why did Maury Forrester take his current job?

a- He needed the exercise.

b- He wanted to work with students.

c- He couldn't find a job in his field.

d- He suffered a stroke and needed to keep working.

4- How do the students at Coulter Grove Intermediate School feel about Maury Forrester?

a- They are surprised by his background.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

b- They are grateful for his help.

c- They are curious about his past.

d- They are impressed by his awards.

5-What does Maury Forrester say about the students at the school?

a- They say "I love you" to him.

b-They are happy to see him.

c- They have become his family.

d- They appreciate his exercise routine.

6- What does Maury Forrester say about his experience at NASA?

a- He received a lot of recognition there.

b- He regrets not working there anymore.

c- Nobody ever said "I love you" to him there.

d- He wishes he could go back to his old job.

7-What is the main point of the story?

a- Maury Forrester's career at NASA was impressive.

b- Maury Forrester's stroke affected his cognitive function.

c- Maury Forrester found fulfillment in his current job.

d- Maury Forrester's story is an example of a successful career.

LIVEWORKSHEETS