Isabel is playing in her yard and suddenly thinks about what she would do if she lived in a fictional world. If she had seen a spaceship, she would have pointed a laser at it, or if she had survived the end of the world, she would have lived on another planet, or if she had been an alien, she would have been a fun alien. If she had used a time machine, she would have gone back in time to meet the dinosaurs. If she had chosen a superpower, it would have been flying. If she had created portals, she would have created portals to the sirens world.
