

Finding the love of your life after falling asleep on a train

Matthew was very tired because he had worked hard all day. He had fallen asleep on the train to his home in Manchester and did not wake up until after the train had reached Scotland. Matthew got off the train in Glasgow. He felt hungry because he hadn't eaten since breakfast so he went into a hamburger restaurant. After he had finished his meal, he talked to the waitress. Her name was Susan. He waited until she had finished work and then they went to the cinema. Susan was very shy because she had never had a boyfriend before. Matthew was very shy because he had never seen such a beautiful girl before.

But they agreed to meet again. Matthew decided to stay in Glasgow because he had fallen in love with Susan. After a year had passed, they got married. It was lucky that Matthew had fallen asleep on the train, wasn't it?
