Studying Abroad

Have you always dreamed of travelling, meeting lots of people, and maybe picking up a language or two? No matter what country you live in, you can learn world trade in Japan, study in France, or take dancing lessons in Ghana. How? You could join a study program where high-school and college students live with a host family in a foreign country. Semester, summer, and year-long programmes allow you to attend school, take intensive language courses or perform community service in another country.

Besides the excitement of travelling, you will experience new customs, foods, art, and music. A _____. This is because your viewpoint will be of an active member of the community, not as a tourist.

Another reason for studying abroad is that you'll become more self-assured. Renata, who studied in Caracas, Venezuela says that she learned how to be better at standing up for herself and her beliefs, and to express herself in another language. B _____ In addition, living away from home can also help you adjust in the transition to college and adulthood. Matthew says when he returned from studying in Australia, he was more mature and had a genuine interest in international affairs that set him apart from his peers.

Although many academic programmes abroad have academic requirements, you do not necessarily have to have the highest grades or marks to be eligible. And most do not have language requirements. Who you are is as important as your academic record. C _____.

If you really hate change and do not like the idea of figuring things out on your own, then studying abroad may not be for you. It's important to be honest with yourself and really think about what you expect. You could end up having a miserable time if you don't.

Task A: Complete gaps A, B, C with the corresponding phrase from 1 to 5. There are two extra phrases.

1- Study programs abroad look for students who are independent, self-assured, enjoy having new experiences meeting different types of people, and can handle challenges.

2- You'll have forgotten all your doubts you once had about your decision.

3- But more importantly, you will learn a lot not only about cultures and people but also about yourself

4- What could give you more self-confidence than that?

5- You'll improve your speaking skills

Task B: *For each of the underlined words in the text, choose the best meaning a) or b).

1- peers — a) people who belong to the same group b) true friends

2- figure things out — a) calculate b) manage
