The typical menu might offer a choice between turkey steak and two veg; pizza; baked potato with salmon mayonnaise; a sandwich, roll or salad. In addition, children can choose to have milk, juice, soup and bread, vegetable and fruit. Chips are still available, but no more than twice a week. Every child gets a free piece of fruit a day in their first two school years and all dining rooms provide free fresh chilled water.

B COLOMBIA

State schools provide either one hot meal a day: soup, rice or pasta, meat, salad and fruit juice; or a series of light snacks: at least two pieces of fruit, fruit juice, small cake and sandwich. In both cases, the amounts of calories, vitamins and nutritional content are set by the Health Ministry, and each meal must provide children with thirty-three per cent of their recommended daily intake.

C JAPAN

In many primary schools meals are eaten in the classroom during the lunch break, and children clean up afterwards. Among the dishes served are tofu stew, assorted vegetables, rice, miso soup, frozen yoghurt and cartons of milk. High schools operate canteens, which serve anything from noodles to curry, but not burgers and chips. Other children have lunchboxes, which may contain cold rice balls, grilled meat or fish, pickles and simmered vegetables.

D SPAIN

Hamburgers are on the menu, but only once a week. On other days you might find omelettes, salads, chick pea stew, fish and pasta. Desserts could be natural yoghurt, orange compote or a banana. Typically there is only one option on offer, though children on special diets are catered for.

E AUSTRALIA

Meat pies, sausage rolls and hotdogs are traditional in Australia. But to fight childhood obesity, many schools use a 'traffic light' system, which limits the sale of red-labelled foods that are high in fat, sugar or salt, such as pastries, chocolate and soft drinks. Healthier green-labelled foods such as sushi, sandwiches, corn on the cob and watermelon slices are available every day. In one school, students can choose from eighty-nine foods, including popcorn, sandwiches, spring water, milkshakes and rice crackers.

The word 'lunch' means a (usually light) meal eaten around 1 p.m. It doesn't matter what you have: just a sandwich, or a cooked meal. The largest meal of the day is 'dinner', which is eaten later.
