

Exercise 110- Joining sentences with 'who' or 'which'

Join these pairs of sentences using 'who' or 'which'. You must leave out the words in bold.

e.g. The bird has flown away. The bird could sing.

The bird which could sing has flown away.

1. The box is here. You were looking for the box.

2. The tree has fallen. We planted it last year.

3. The picture won the first prize. His brother painted it.

4. The child is sleeping. The child cried just now.

5. The dress is too tight. You sewed the dress.

6. The girl knows my brother. The girl told us the news.

7. The boys have fallen ill. They ate the mushrooms.

8. The children have left. They were playing in the field.

9. The book is the thickest on the shelf. You are holding the book.

10. Did you talk to the lady? The lady brought the parcel.

Exercise 111- Joining sentences with 'whom' or 'whose'

Join these pairs of sentences using 'whom' or 'whose'. You must leave out the words in bold.

e.g. Is that the man? His son is a soldier.
Is that the man whose son is a soldier?

1. This is the girl. Her sister is your classmate.

2. She knows the boy. His brother is studying in Australia.

3. The man has only one arm. I saw the man yesterday. .

4. The lady is Mei Ling's mother. You spoke to the lady just now.

5. I went to see the man. His son is an artist.

6. Did you see the lady? Her jewels were stolen.

7. The teacher can speak French. I talked to her just now.

8. The boy lives near my house. You were playing with him.

9. This is the woman. The woman's house caught fire.

10. The boy is his step-son. He is shouting at the boy.