

I was walking to work yesterday when I saw a very strange sight. A man was riding his bicycle, but he wasn't looking at the road. He was reading a book while he was riding! He wasn't going very fast, so he probably didn't think he would have an accident.

I couldn't believe it. I took out my phone and started to take a photo of him. I wanted to show my friends this crazy thing. But then, he looked up from his book and saw me with my phone. He was very angry. He shouted at me and came over to me. He tried to take my phone, but I was too quick for him. I put it in my bag. Then he got back on his bike and rode away.

It was unbelievable! I've never seen anything like it. I'm always careful when I cross the road. I don't want to have an accident. But he wasn't being careful at all!

1

What was the man doing while riding his bicycle?

- a) Talking on the phone.
- b) Listening to music.
- c) Reading a book.
- d) Watching a movie.

2

How did the narrator react when they saw the man?

- a) They took a photo of him.
- b) They called the police.
- c) They ignored him and continued walking.
- d) They shouted at him.

3

Why did the man get angry at the narrator?

- a) The narrator was riding their bike too close to him.
- b) The narrator was not paying attention to the road.
- c) The narrator was taking a photo of him.
- d) The narrator was reading a book as well.

4

What did the narrator do when the man tried to take their phone?

- a) They gave him their phone.
- b) They ran away.
- c) They put their phone in their bag.
- d) They called for help.

5

How did the man react after the incident?

- a) He apologized to the narrator.
- b) He continued riding his bike.
- c) He walked away.
- d) He confronted the narrator again.