1	More and more other people, especially in the world's	other
2	industrialised countries are becoming older. In the	✓
3	United States there are 40 million people aged at 65 and
4	older. Since caring for the elderly is not only a necessity;
5	it has turned over into a big industry as well.
6	In the past, older people were taken care of in an extended
7	family. Grandparents have lived and were cared for at 8	home. As more and more old people became employed,
9	they could not simply stay at home and take the care of
10	their grandparents anymore.
11	As a result, more and more care centres have started up
12	to offer their services to the elderly population growth.
13	The most difficult task of such a business is finding out
14	the right people to do the job. Caretaking is being very
15	demanding and requires a skill and patience. There are
16	many daily tasks that caretakers have to do, like preparing
17	themselves meals, washing older people or simply giving
18	them company. When many care workers quit their
19	jobs after a short period of the time because they often
20	find it depressing enough.
21	In some cases, like elderly people can do certain things
22	on their own. They hire private caretakers to help them
23	do. This costs less and elderly people can stay in the
24	living environment they are used to live.
