

Part 4. Read. Circle the correct answer A, B, or C. (5 pts)

A. Did you know that farmers grew the first olive trees over 6,000 years ago? Olive trees produce delicious olive fruits, which many people eat. However, people use most olives to make olive oil.

B. Olive oil is very popular around the world. People use olive oil for cooking, and they eat it with food such as bread and salad. People in Greece use the most olive oil. Italians and Spaniards use it a lot, too.

C. This delicious oil originally comes from countries around the Mediterranean Sea. Today, Spain, Italy, and Greece produce 75 percent of the world's olive oil. Farmers in these countries grow most of the olives needed for olive oil on small farms.

D. How do people process olives into olive oil? First, they grind the olives into a mixture. Then, they stir the mixture. This helps the oil to come together. Finally, they press the mixture to remove the oil. Some people still process olive oil by hand, but now machines do it more often. After people remove the oil, they package it and export it to countries around the world. They use ships, trains, and trucks to get the oil to the shops that sell it.

E. There are many kinds of olive oil, but extra-virgin olive oil is really delicious and healthy. Would you like to taste some? Go to your local supermarket and try some today!

Part 5. Read. Rearrange the sentences. Write 1-5 (5 pts)

Karen lived with her parents in the Karoo Basin of South Africa. The Karoo was famous for plant and animal fossils. Karen's father was a paleontologist, and Karen enjoyed looking at all the dinosaur bones in his office. She hoped to discover her own dinosaur bone someday.

Every summer, Karen's father invited paleontologists from around the world to the Karoo. As they hiked through the dry land, he would show them fossil samples within the layers of sedimentary rock and ash.

This summer, Karen asked her father if she could go along on the hike. He agreed, but he asked her to stay close by. As they drove to the trail, Karen's heart beat quickly with excitement. There were so many places to explore.

The hike was interesting, but Karen was too curious to stay on the trail. Without asking, she ran down into a nearby ravine and looked among the rocks. Then, she heard her father's voice calling her. She ran up the side of the ravine. Suddenly, she spotted something white and shiny. "Dad!" she shouted excitedly.

Karen's father stood at the top of the ravine with the other people. They looked worried until Karen pointed to the shiny object. All the paleontologists examined it. It was the skull of a dinosaur nobody knew about! Her father smiled. "Karen," he said. "You are now the youngest paleontologist in the Karoo!"

- a. After examining the shiny object, the paleontologists agreed that Karen discovered a dinosaur skull.
- b. Karen's father and other paleontologists studied fossil samples every summer in Karoo.
- c. Karen liked the dinosaur bones in her father's office, and she wanted to find her own dinosaur bone someday.
- d. Karen ran down the ravine and saw a special object when looking among the rocks.
- e. Karen was excited to join her father on the hike in Karoo because she could explore many places.
