

1. Our information is out of date, so we need to find out more about the [challenging / expertise / current / sophisticated] situation.
2. You're talking about something that [took over / occurred / exploded / rewarded] many years ago it's not relevant now.
3. The [mass / lab / efficiency / max] production of cars in the early 20th century meant that thousands of vehicles were produced.
4. Our company has a reliable and dedicated [degree / workforce / demographic / creativity].
5. Joe's deep understanding of the subject is [middle-class / rewarding / accurately / evident] in his writing.
6. The job was easy but it was very [emotional / major / repetitive / operated] so I soon got bored.
7. The president was keen to speak to his [technicians / counterparts / intelligence / middle-class] in other countries.
8. The [likelihood / accuracy / creativity / case] of winning the lottery is very small.
9. When I saw the pile of paperwork, I realised what a [rewarding / daunting / redundant / digitized] task lay ahead of me.
10. The [challenging / unpredictable / emotional / commonplace] nature of earthquakes means they strike without warning.
11. Mike didn't [take over / enter / reform / take to] life in the country so he moved back to the city after a year.
12. I admire your enthusiasm but it is no [aversion / substitute / surgeon / baggage] to ability – you have to prove you can do the job.
13. Many people in the town lost their [app designers / clerks / livelihoods / likelihoods] when the factory closed down.
14. When the company started losing money, workers were made [redundant / devices / digitized / self-service].
15. [Entrepreneurialism / Radiology / Commonplace / Emerge] must be encouraged; if we want the economy to grow, we need young people with good business skills.
16. The student expressed her [algorithm / reform / consternation / commonplace] at the amount of work she had to do.
17. Traditionally, the colours pink and blue are favoured by girls and boys [redundancy / digitized / respectively / medically].

18. Since he got his new games console, Harry had barely [reformed / digitized / threatened / emerged] from his room.
19. A heart [courier / protest / albeit / surgeon] typically gets paid very well for performing operations.
20. One noticeable change in the 1990s was that computers became [threatened / commonplace / redundant / devices] in people's homes.