

OUTWARD BOUND

Outward Bound is a special outdoor program for young people. It lets them explore nature. At the same time, it teaches them important life skills. Outward Bound students learn how to work together. They also learn how to be calm and confident in difficult situations.

Outward Bound students can also go on hiking trips. They get to explore beautiful mountains. These hiking trips aren't just about walking, though. Students need to overcome obstacles as a group. These trips help young people be more confident.

Q How do hiking trips help young people?

Outward Bound also offers community service projects. Students might clean up a hiking trail or a beach, or help collect food for a local food bank. They learn the value of giving back. Outward Bound will make you ready for anything in life.
