

Language can play a huge role in our culture and custom, not music.
You read English like the way the read music.
In the same way, we know that styles of music are similar around the world.
If you don't like Britpop melodies, you may not like the energy of Latin American salsa music.
Music can sound angry, sad or happy.
When you feel happy, you might want to sing and dance to a happy song to celebrate your happiness.
