EZ Screen Fans

@LizaPrav

goals

can or could there's Vaguely
eventful priest entirely new closure
look Robert in the eye
matrimony
leeway
chaplains
poor judgment

Grace and Frankie S 2 Ep 1

Before we begin.
Read the conversation. Put in be verb in the correct form.

- Remember this morning when our lives approaching normal?
- Vaguely.
- I have a feeling I moved out of my house, had sex with Sol.
- Yeah.
- I still had a boyfriend.
- Wow, it an eventful ten hours.
- Well, we're old.

Match the sentences with the meaning of can/could in them.

I'm a Catholic priest. I just can't join two men

I could be an entirely new person.

And you didn't say anything that could cause his face land on the table?

Can you please not say anything?

Can I get you anything?

He had a heart attack, if you can search by that.

it was good because now there can be closure.

I can't even look Robert in the eye.

A - ability
AP - ability, past
R - request
Pe - permission
O - offer
S - suggestion
PO - possibility

Read the conversation. Put in be verb in the correct form.

- Mal, are you crazy? You already have two kids. That's like four kids.
- Yeah. OK, you guys, can you please not say anything? Not with everything going on.
- [Coyote] Yeah.
- Yes.
- [Mal] Yeah.
- OK.
- Yeah, of course.
- I can hardly get my arms around you.
- Oh. So loving.
- Sorry. I got excited.
- I thought you might fat.

Classroom language

Complete the requests with the words from the box

repeat paraphrase speak remind articulate guess

- Sorry, I didn't hear what you said, can you it?
- I don't remember where who said it, can you me?
- I don't remember this word, but I'll explain, can you try to ?
- I'm sorry, I can't hear you, could you more loudly?
- Sorry, I can't understand what you're saying, can you ?
- Sorry, it's too complicated for me, can you ?

Read the conversation. Which word is missing?

- I really wish I could help you.
- Well, don't wish. Do. Father.
- I can't. I'm a Catholic priest. I just can't join two men in holy matrimony.
- ( )'s no, like, leeway? Even with this new pope?

- So now ( )'s a new secret?
- Which is exactly why I shouldn't marry him right now.
- Yeah, but what is he gonna think if you don't?
- He doesn't need to know why. Yet. Couldn't I just tell him I couldn't find the marriage license? Or-- Or there were no chaplains available?

- This is gonna sound weird coming from me, but that shows very poor judgment,Mom.
- You're right. But it was great. No, not the sex. The sex was…
- Stop!
- But it was good because now ( ) can be closure. Well, it was good for me. This one thinks he made a huge mistake.
- Gigantic.

Match the words with the definitions.

Vaguely	A religious leader, typically associated with a specific faith or denomination, authorized to perform religious ceremonies and duties.
eventful	Full of interesting or important events; having a lot of activity or incidents.
priest	The state of being married; the institution of marriage.
entirely new	The feeling or process of finality or resolution, especially in overcoming a difficult or traumatic experience.
closure	Completely different or novel; not having existed or been experienced before.
look Robert in the eye	In a way that is not clear, distinct, or precise; with a lack of clear details.
matrimony	The freedom or flexibility to act within certain limits; margin or room for variation.
leeway	Making decisions or choices that are not wise, sensible, or well-considered.
chaplains	Religious ministers or clergy members who typically serve in non-religious institutions such as hospitals, prisons, or the military.
poor judgment	To make direct eye contact with someone, often implying honesty, sincerity, or facing a situation directly.

LIVEWORKSHEETS