

What does the speaker say is the purpose of their speech?

- a To entertain the audience with jokes.
- b To impart interesting facts and research.
- c To inspire the audience to change their lives.
- d To fill time and appear knowledgeable.

2

How does the speaker engage the audience at the beginning of the speech?

- a By asking a question and requesting a show of hands.
- b By sharing a personal anecdote.
- c By making hand gestures.
- d By adjusting their glasses.

3

What does the speaker admit about the man in the picture they show?

- a He is a renowned scientist.
- b He is important, but the speaker doesn't know who he is.
- c He is the speaker's role model.
- d He is a fictional character.

4

What does the speaker say about the number of talks they have given so far?

- a They have given multiple talks.
- b They have given one talk.
- c They have given zero talks.
- d They have lost count of the number of talks.

5

What does the speaker do to make it seem like they have done their homework?

- a Show a pie chart and a bar graph.
- b Use words paired with stock photos.
- c Point at words on the screen.
- d Speak gibberish.

6

What does the speaker do to create a sense of intensity and build-up?

- a Pace back and forth.
- b Take off their glasses.
- c Change the tone of their voice.
- d Speak faster and louder.