My kind of holiday

In the 1970s, travel to other countries was quite expensive and it was more typical to 1 stay in your own / go to another country for your holiday. My family stayed in Wales. In summer, we drove to Tenby in South Wales for two weeks and we spent every day on the beach. It wasn't always hot, so we didn't 2 trek / lie on the beach - we played beach volleyball with the local kids and we 3 had / went swimming in the sea.

The first time I went to 4 another / my own country was on a school trip to Paris. I went 5 with a group of friends / on my own from my history class and we had a great time, even with the teachers! We went 6 sightseeing / a tour and we 7 trekked / visited lots of museums and art galleries.

Now I live in a small village, but I hardly ever 8 stay / go in the countryside for my holidays. I like going on 9 beach holidays / my own in the summer and on city breaks at other times of the year. Last week I was in Prague. I rented 10 an apartment / a cheap hotel for a few days and looked 11 at / around the city. I didn't have a map with me and I 12 got / went lost once or twice, but I had a good time.
