Dear Grandma and Grandad,

Thank you very much for my birthday present! I love my new trainers. I'm wearing them right now! They fit me perfectly.

I'm going to have my birthday party tomorrow because it's Saturday. First, ten of my friends are coming to my house in the afternoon. Then, we're going to go to the bowling alley in the town centre. My brother isn't going to come because he hates bowling – I think that's because he isn't very good at it! I'll invite him to join us later though. We're going to eat at my favourite burger stall. In the evening, we'll probably watch a film at my house. Mum and Dad bought me some great new DVDs for my birthday, so I'd like to watch one of them.

I'll see you next month! Thanks again for the present.

Love from,
Paul

Read the letter, then look at the sentences from the letter. What or who do the words in blue refer to?

1. I'm wearing them right now!

2. I'm going to have my birthday party tomorrow.

3. He isn't very good at it!

4. I'll invite him to join us.

5. We'll probably watch a film.

6. I'll see you next month!

Change the words in blue to subject or object pronouns.

1. If I find some cheap DVDs, I'm going to buy the DVDs
2. Lucy doesn't like football because she isn't very good at football
3. I want to buy a CD for Tim's birthday, but I don't know what music Tim likes.
4. Amy didn't know where to go swimming, but someone told Amy about the new sports centre.

Using pronouns

We use pronouns to avoid repeating names and nouns.

Subject pronouns	I	you		she	it	we
