

goals
 please continue the participle
 should have done

Read the conversations out loud . Put in the verb to be in the correct form.

- Oh, these beautiful. Thank you. This so generous.
- You have no idea how happy I to be rid of them.
- The thing , we want your lube in every store in America.
- And public hair might making a comeback, there just so very, very much of it. Still, I do want in every store in America. Ta-da.
- OK. Yes, this closer.
- Oh, it fits you perfectly. Not everyone can carry off canary yellow. We the lucky ones.
- it not too bright? I'm interviewing to be a bank teller.
- You wear a bright color like that, you'll even more memorable.
- I thought mentors were supposed all nice and encouraging.
- This me being nice and encouraging.
- God, you like a two-legged version of my mom.
- You right. I happy for you.
- See, isn't it nice nice to the nice?
- What do you consider your strengths as a-- as an employee?
- And your weaknesses?
- Cof! Wow. I don't know. I have so many. Uh, I late a lot, I always lose like three sets of keys, I've got a bad temper, I--
- Oh, OK, instead of saying you have a bad temper, try saying you feel passionate about your work.
- I passionate about my work. I hated every job I ever had.

Present Simple (V (s) or Continuous (be + V-ing)? Put in the verbs in brackets in the correct form

- You (wash) the dishes! With fresh water. Oh, is this a housekeeping mirage?
- I'm upset. Sometimes I (clean) when I'm upset.
- What the hell you (do)? You have a migraine or something?
- I (try) to imagine what you'll look like at the interview without that bracelet in your nose.
- What interview?
- You have an interview with my daughter. Friday. Two o'clock sharp. No pressure. Just practice. Unless you ace it. Which nobody (do) wearing a door knocker on their face.
- What's the matter?
- Jacob (want) sex. With me. In the vagina.
- Things (happen).
- And I want you to know, no matter how massive this lube thing (get), I will always be supportive of the organic...
- Actually, I need to talk to you guys. It's about... feelings.
- No. I can't go there.
- No, you see, Jacob and I (have) a successful business relationship.
- Who's Jacob?
- The farmer who (supply) yams for my lube.
- Farmer? Really? All that early to bed and early to rise shit and actual shit? They named the worst tan after them for a reason.
- No, he's actually a great guy and I'm pretty sure he (want) me to be his one and only.
- And the problem is?
- I'm not ready for a big romance.
- Well, who (have) time for that?
- Yeah, it kind of (make) me want to take a nap just thinking about it.
- Right. So what I (do)? I don't want to lose the friendship. And I love the flirtation.

Present Continuous (be + V-ing) or Present Participle (V-ing)? Put in the verbs in brackets in the correct form

- I don't want to be (work) for tips or (clean) things with a rag the rest of my life
- What would you like to be (do)?
- Hey, you guys! Barry from Accounting and I (do) it. On the regs. And if you have a problem with that, Cindy, you're fired. And also, thank you for (tell) me my bra was showing yesterday. You're fired for that, too.
- Everybody knows. Nobody cares. Love today's bra.
- I was an engineer at Lockheed. And I kind of hated (be) an engineer at Lockheed. You know how people talk about their jobs, (move) to Vermont and (make) cheese?
- You're the guy who actually did it. Except with yams. In California.
- All of the (worry) and the sickness is over. We got through it. So, mazel tov. And I (hope) that from now on, every Friday night, we'll be here, together... (do) this.
- I think you need to focus all that energy and instead of (find) me a job, go find yourself one.

Read the conversations out loud.

- You wear a bright color like that, you'll be even more memorable. If you really want to stand out, after the interview, mail them a thank you note. It's more personal than a-- than an email. But the trick is, write it ahead of time and then slip it in the mailbox as you leave.

- That's a great idea. I would've never thought of that.

- I had to send half of that to my ex-wife.

- You were married?

- I told you that.

- No, you didn't. I would have remembered.

In (*3) / while / back / to / for / out / around? Put in the correct preposition

- We help a lot of women. Some come just to get clothes, but we also do job placement and mentoring.
- Oh.
- I will be right with your donation receipt.
- Do you have a résumé?
- I do. It flew of my car window I was driving here.
- She works my doctor's office. She isn't a doctor or a nurse, but she bosses 'em all . And they listen her because she knows everything. Except all the gross medical stuff, which I have zero interest .
- Sounds like she might be an office manager.

Match the words with the definitions.

- carry off
- teller
- memorable
- temper
- be passionate about
- be rough around the edges
- ace it.
- with a rag
- on the regs
- be fired
- Someone who works in a bank and is responsible for handling financial transactions, such as deposits, withdrawals, and exchanging currencies.
- To successfully achieve or accomplish something despite difficulties or challenges.
- Using a cloth, usually for cleaning or wiping.
- To have some imperfections or flaws, but to be generally good or acceptable
- Regularly; something that happens frequently or according to a routine.
- To have strong feelings or enthusiasm for something.
- The state of one's emotions, particularly in terms of being calm or agitated.
- To perform exceptionally well or excel at something.
- Something that is worth remembering or easily remembered because it is special, significant, or remarkable.
- To lose one's job due to dismissal or termination by an employer.