Group Discussion

Let's talk about HISTORY

Conversation cards

What is history? Work in group and make your own definition. Compare with others.	What do you know about the history of your country? Give a brief overview.	What do you know about world history? Name some important events.
Do/did you like History as a school subject? Explain why (not).	Which period of history interests you most? How many periods from history can you name?	What are the most important events in your country's history? What happened?
When was the last time you went to a history museum? Did you enjoy it? Who did you go with? Talk about it.	According to you, what were the most important historical events of the last century? Work in group. Discuss.	In your opinion, who were the most important figures in history? Explain.
Which historic figure would you most like to meet? Why? What would you ask him/her?	What are the most important historical sites in your country? Where are they and what can you see or do there?	Which recent event(s) might be called historic? Explain why.
'Studying history is useless. Why waste time on things we cannot change anyway?' Do you agree?	If you had a time machine, which period in history would you like to go back to? Why?	Imagine it's the year 2100 and are asked to describe the history of the 21st century. What might have happened?
Which historical films have you seen? Talk about one. Have you read any historical novels?	"We learn from history that we learn nothing from history." (G.B. Shaw) Explain. Do you agree?	Do you think History school books tell the same all over the world? Why or why not? Brainstorm and discuss.

Introducing ... Dwayne Johnson!

If you like to watch Hollywood movies (I do!), especially action movies, then you probably already know the face of Dwayne Johnson. You might also know that he's American, and that his nickname[1] is 'the Rock". However, you might not know that he is also a Canadian citizen[2]. Here are a few more things that you might not know about this man.

He was born in 1972, in a small city called Hayward (near San Francisco) in California. Because Dwayne's father was a wrestler[3], Dwayne often travelled with his family (parents, brother and sister) and lived in many other cities when he was young. He even lived in New Zealand for a short while. Moving around so much was difficult for Dwayne because it was not very easy for him to make many friends. He was often angry and fought with other people, and so the police arrested[4] him several times. However, things started to change when he was in high school, when he started to play football. Dwayne really liked to play football, so he became happier, he made more friends, his grades got better, and he later played football in college. In college, he was already big: he was 193 centimeters[5] tall, and he weighed 113 kilograms[6], and so after college he became a wrestler (like his father and grandfather). Many people say that he was one of the best wrestlers in the world. Dwayne was happy as a wrestler, but he wanted to try something new. That's when he decided to try acting, and in 2002 he starred in a big Hollywood movie called The Scorpion King. The movie was very popular and Dwayne went on to make many more movies that are loved by people all around the world.

Dwayne Johnson has had many jobs, but he says that, "being a father is the greatest job that I have ever had." He has three children and now lives in Florida. What is Dwayne's advice on how to be successful? He says, "Surround[7] yourself with brilliant[8] people. And go to work!"
