The British way of life?

Listen to the article, drag and drop the words or figures to complete the text.

A new survey on the free time and shopping habits of British people is published this week – and it shows that we still love football, going to pubs, watching TV and eating fish and chips! Here are some of the results from the survey.

- The British are always happy when they're socialising. 55% of [a] _____ and 44% of [b] _____ go to a bar or pub with their friends every week.
- About [c] _____ of adults go to a festival or a concert at least once a year and [d] _____ go to the theatre. About 25% go to a museum or an art gallery.
- British people generally watch TV for about [e] _____ hours every day – and about [f] _____ of men have dinner and watch TV at the same time!
- The average British person spends more than [g] _____ hours online every month, and a [h] _____ that time is on social networking sites like Facebook and Twitter.
- [i] _____ than half of all adults in the UK do some sport every month. About [j] _____ British people go swimming and [k] _____ play football – but 32% watch football on TV once or twice a week.
- British people normally go on holiday once a year, but [l] _____ people have two or more holidays a year. The most popular holiday destination is [m] _____
- [n] _____ adults go to a McDonald's restaurant every three months, but [o] _____ go to a traditional fish and chip shop.
- The British spend about £48 million on [p] _____ and £56 million on [q] _____ every month.
- And every British person eats [r] _____ of chocolate every year – more than any other country in the world!

7%

15%

20%

30%

45%

four

A quarter of men

women

10 Kg

22

20% of

30% of

46%

More

coffee

tea

Spain

LIVEWORKSHEETS