The Academy Awards, commonly called the Oscars, are thought to be the most prestigious film awards in the world. The Academy Awards ceremony takes place late February every year to honor the best achievements in filmmaking from the previous year.

Some top categories of Academy Awards are Best Actor/Actress in a Leading Role, Best Actor/Actress in a Supporting Role, Best Picture, Best Director, Best Costume Design, Best Music, Best Visual Effects, and Best Animated Feature Film. The various category winners are awarded a copy of a golden statuette called an Oscar. The Oscar statuette is made of gold-plated bronze on a black metal base. It is 34.3cm tall and weighs almost 4kg. It depicts a knight holding a crusader's sword, standing on a reel of film with five spokes. The five spokes represent the original branches of the Academy: Actors, Writers, Directors, Producers, and Technicians.

The Academy Awards ceremony was first held on 16 May, 1929 at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, but it was first broadcast on radio in 1930 and televised for the first time in 1953. It is now seen live in more than 200 countries and broadcast to billions of people on the Internet!
