The Surprise Party

Once upon a time, Sarah and Mark _____ a surprise party for their friend, Emily. They _____ the house while Emily _____.

As Sarah _____ decorations in the living room, Mark _____ up balloons in the kitchen. They _____ with excitement, hoping to give Emily the best surprise ever.

Suddenly, Sarah remembered that they needed to bake a cake. She said to Mark, "I'll start mixing the batter while you preheat the oven." Mark agreed and went to turn on the oven.

While Sarah _____ flour and sugar, Mark _____ eggs in a bowl. They _____ together, knowing exactly what to do.

As the cake _____ in the oven, Sarah and Mark began to set up the party games in the backyard. They were hanging the piñata and laying out blankets for a picnic. They _____ and having a great time.

Just as they finished setting everything up, they heard the front door open. Emily was home! Sarah quickly whispered to Mark, "Hide! She can't see us!" They both ducked behind the bushes, trying to contain their excitement.

Emily walked into the backyard, her eyes widening in surprise at the sight before her. "What's all this?" she exclaimed. Sarah and Mark jumped out from behind the bushes, shouting, "Surprise!"

Emily was speechless as she looked around at the decorations and the smiling faces of her friends. She hugged Sarah and Mark tightly, feeling overwhelmed with joy.

The rest of the evening was filled with laughter, games, and lots of cake. Sarah and Mark were delighted to see Emily so happy, knowing that their surprise party was a success.

As the night came to an end, Sarah and Mark helped clean up the backyard, feeling grateful for the wonderful friendship they shared with Emily. They knew that this would be a party they would never forget.
