

Use the words in the box to complete the dialogue.

*weekends - seat - problem - pasta- meal - sounds - Taylor - sit
- sit - olives - delicious - good -name -*

Scene: A cozy restaurant, bustling with the chatter of diners and the clinking of dishes. All tables are occupied except for one, which has two people seated at it.

Person A and Person B are enjoying their meal at this table.

Person C enters the restaurant, looks around, and notices that there are no free tables available. After a brief moment of hesitation, Person C approaches Person A and Person B.

Person C: Excuse me, may I _____ here, please? Everywhere else is full.

Person A (smiling): Of course! Please, have a _____.

Person C: Thank you so much! It's very _____ today.

Person B: Yes, it is. It's always like this on _____. What would you like to eat?

Person C: I'm thinking about the _____. What are you having?

Person A: I'm having the chicken, and it's very _____.

Person B: And I have the fish. It's _____ too!

Person C (looking at the menu): Then, I'll try the pasta. It _____ good.

Person A: Great choice! Would you like to share some bread and _____ with us while we wait?

Person C: That would be lovely, thank you.

Person B (to Person C): What's your _____?

Person C: I'm Alex. And you?

Person A: I'm Jamie, and this is _____.

Alex (Person C): Nice to meet you, Jamie and Taylor. Thank you for letting me _____ with you.

Jamie (Person A): Nice to meet you too, Alex. It's no _____ at all. It's nice to meet new people.

Taylor (Person B): Yes, welcome, Alex! Enjoy your _____.

Alex: Thank you. I'm sure I will.