

How does the specific heat of water affect the reversal of the air currents from day to night?