Should and Had Better: Advice and Warning - Completion Story. Complete the story by filling in the blanks with "should" or "had better" to give advice or warnings appropriately.

Once upon a time, there was a young boy named Tim who loved to explore the forest near his home. One day, Tim decided to venture deep into the woods alone. His mother warned him about the dangers and told him he _____ listen to her advice and stay on the marked trails. However, Tim was adventurous and thought he _____ follow his own instincts.

As Tim wandered deeper into the forest, he encountered a fork in the path. Unsure which way to go, he remembered his mother's words and thought he _____ choose the path that seemed safer. But his curiosity got the better of him, and he chose the path that led into the dark, dense trees.

As Tim continued on the path, he heard strange noises and saw ominous shadows lurking among the trees. Suddenly, he realized he _____ have listened to his mother's warning and stayed on the marked trails. Feeling frightened and lost, Tim wished he _____ followed her advice and brought a map or a compass with him.

Just when Tim thought he _____ never find his way out of the forest, he stumbled upon a familiar landmark and finally made his way back home. Exhausted and relieved, he promised himself that next time, he _____ heed his mother's advice and explore the forest safely.
