"You Must Have Had A Broken Heart"

The way you say the things you do
The softness of the words you choose
The times that you can read my mind
And take my worries outta sight

Your fingers touching on my lips
That say a kiss is still a kiss
And when you look at me I see
I see the pain that you had to feel

You must have had a broken heart
To love me the way you do
Must have been so torn apart
I can see it when I look at you
All the meaning that is in your eyes
The love you give will never die
And I knew right from the start
You must have had a broken heart

You seem to have that certain smile
I can't forget after a while
The day you walked into the room
At once I knew the hurt that you'd been through

You must have had a broken heart
To love me the way you do
You must have been so torn apart
I can see it when I look at you
All the meaning that is in your eyes
The love you give will never die
And I knew right from the start
You must have had a broken heart

Sometimes when it's late at night
And I see your face in the firelight
Showing all the love you have for me
Well, I love you as much

You must have had a broken heart
To love me the way you do
You must have been so torn apart
I can see it when I look at you
All the meaning that is in your eyes
The love you give will never die
And I knew right from the start
You must have had a broken heart sometime

(Sometime)
Must have been so torn apart
(Must have had a broken heart, yeah)
I can see it when I look at you
All the meaning that is in your eyes
The love you give will never die
And I knew right from the start
You must have had a broken heart sometime
