Then I put on my jacket and backpack and headed out the door.

Tomorrow, I will bring an umbrella and a jacket so that I am prepared for whatever the weather may be.

As I ate breakfast with my family, the skies grew even darker.

Last night when I checked the weather channel, the skies were clear.

Finally, I just had to accept that I would be wet all day.

After I got to school, I tried to dry off, but I was totally soaked.

When I began walking to school, it began to pour and of course I forgot my umbrella.

But today when I woke up and looked outside, the morning was cloudy and grey.
