MONEY MADNESS

Most people know that when they travel abroad, they might need to use a different currency. For example, in much of Europe, you pay for things in euros, while in Mexico, you (a)..... use pesos.

However, one thing a lot of people don't realise is that there are laws in many countries about what you can and (b)..... do when it comes to money. So, before you visit a new country, you really (c)..... find out if there are any unusual laws. Here are some that I have come across when I have been travelling.

In Thailand, if you drop some money on the ground, you (d)..... step on it to stop it blowing away. In Canada, try not to have too much change, because you (e)..... use more than 25 one-cent coins to pay for things you buy.

Imagine one day you went to New York and wanted to buy a bagel, which is a type of bread. If you wanted it sliced, the shop assistant would say you (f)..... pay a tax, but you (g)..... pay if they weren't sliced.
