E-mail and chat rooms let children communicate with friends and family members. They can also allow children to connect with people that they have never met in person. Knowing a little about each of these communication services can help parents keep children safer when online.

Through e-mail, users can easily send and receive messages. These messages may also have text, audio, or picture files attached. Signing up for an e-mail account is simple because most services offer them for free. Sometimes these messages contain viruses, or other inappropriate content, so parents should warn children to be wary of e-mails from unknown people.

Chat rooms are online hang-out spots where anyone can talk about anything - current events, books, and other common interests. Users often don't know each other in real life, so it is important that parents keep a close eye on the content of any conservations.
