KUALA LUMPUR: Visitors are flocking to Zoo Negara to see Oyen, a cat which has developed a special bond with a herd of capybara here. Zoo Negara vice president Rosly@Rahmat Ahmat Lana said over 3,000 people visited the zoo over the weekend to see the ginger-coloured cat fraternising with the large rodents. Rosly said Oyen is now the "Star of Zoo Negara" and has gained extraordinary popularity following its unique friendship with the capybaras over the past three years. Rosly also said his team intends to find a partner for Oyen so that its line can continue. The friendship between the two different species has become a huge draw at Zoo Negara after a video went viral on social media showing Oyen, a stray cat, hugging a capybara while sleeping.

Who hasn't heard the scary ghost stories of the infamous Karak Highway in Malaysia? This route that connects Kuala Lumpur with the East Coast has appeared in countless ghost stories, including sightings of 'pontianaks' and one of the self-driven yellow Volkswagen which cannot be overtaken. There's also one where a car in which a couple was traveling broke down on the highway and the husband was forced to walk to the nearest emergency phone booth to get help but he never came back. A patrol car pulled up and asked the lady to step out and walk towards them. When she turned back to look at her car, she saw her husband's headless body on the roof of the car.
