

Susan: Good morning, John, Michael. So, let's discuss these new (1)_____ buses. Should we use them in our city? John, what do you think?

John: Well, Susan, I don't like them. First of all, they'll (2)_____ cost a lot of money.

Susan: OK John. Anything else?

John: Yeah. Our city already has buses, but people don't use them! They probably won't use the flying buses, either.

Susan: I see. (3)_____ you're right. Michael, what do you think?

Michael: I don't agree with John. Lots of people have said that they don't use our buses because of traffic (4)_____. They just move too slowly. Flying buses can avoid traffic jams (5)_____, so they travel much faster.

Susan: Yes, that's right Michael. They're (6)_____ faster than our old buses, and they're much (7)_____, too.

John: I see. That sounds good, but I'm still worried about the (8)_____.

Susan: Michael, you look like you want to say something.

Michael: Yes, Susan. Actually, it's about the cost. If the (9)_____ isn't too expensive, I think lots of (10)_____ will want to fly every day. I think our city will collect a lot of money from this.

Susan: That's right. I think they could (11)_____ encourage more people to visit our city, too. If we increase (12)_____, it'll benefit everyone. So, John, do you agree?

John: Hmm. Yes, I see your point. OK, then.

Susan: Fantastic, that's it, so we all agree.
