But shopping online isn't all great - you need to be very careful when deciding what to buy and where to buy it. Here are some tips for shopping safely online.

Use a secure connection

The easiest way of making sure the connection is secure is to look for the lock sign in the address bar. Another is to look at the start of the website address. If this starts with "https", there is a secure connection because the letter "s" means "secure". If you see 'http' with no "s", don't enter the website or give your personal or bank details. It could be a false website that is trying to steal your money or personal information.

Use a secure payment method

Only shop on sites that offer secure payment methods, like credit cards and other payment systems. This gives you protection in a situation where you and the shop disagree - the shop can't say you did anything illegal, like using another person's credit card to pay. Banks usually contact you if they think something is wrong.

Create a strong password

A strong password is very important. It's usually a good idea to change your passwords every few months, just in case someone finds out what they are. Also, try to use a different password for different online shopping sites: once someone guesses one password, they can get access to everything you do online.

Check other customers' comments

Always check the seller's history when using online sites. You can get an idea by looking at other buyers' comments. If you are not sure about a product, you can always send the seller a question and the good sellers will reply fairly quickly.

1. What is the purpose of the article?
2. According to the author, what are the benefits of shopping online?
3. What does the author say you can do to make sure the connection is safe?
4. According to the author, why is it important to create a strong password?
5. Why does the author suggest you check other customers' comments?

3. Answer the questions below.

Nick: I've spent about thirty hours on the Internet so far this week. I'm really into it. I usually go on about 9.00 in the evening after dinner and homework. I maybe stay on until half past eleven in the evening when the rest of my family are all in bed.

Mi: I haven't watched any TV so far this week. I don't have a television. I hate television - it's really bad for you.

Phong: I haven't written any letters so far this year. Nobody writes letters these days, do they? I always send e-mails, or cards if it's a birthday or something personal.

Mai: I don't know how many books I've read so far this year ... too many to count. I've read five books this week. I usually read about four or five a week. I love reading. If I really like a book, I might read it five or six times.

1. How many hours has Nick spent on the Internet this week?
2. When does Nick often go to bed after going on the Net?
3. Why does Mi hate television?
4. Does Phong communicate with others by sending and receiving e-mails?
