READING!

I really love Valentine's Day—it's like my own special day! My birthday is in February, and I always relate this month with love and warmth, even if it's cold outside.

Every February 14th, my friends and I give each other gifts and sweet messages. It's a day of smiles, hugs, and nice gestures that make even the coldest days feel warm.

Valentine's Day isn't just about romantic love for me; it's about celebrating all types of love. It's a reminder to appreciate the people who make me happy.

Sometimes I have small gatherings with friends, with heart-shaped chocolates and fun movies. Other times, I have a cozy dinner with my partner, enjoying sweet talks and loving looks.

But no matter how I celebrate it, it's all about the warmth and happiness of celebrating my birthdays and Valentine's Days, making every February feel extra special.
