

A clause is a group of words that has a subject and a verb.

An independent clause expresses a complete thought. This type of clause may be a complete sentence, or it may be part of a sentence.

Examples: Not much was left but dust.

When the rains stopped coming and the soil blew away, not much was left but dust.

A dependent clause does not express a complete thought. It must be part of a sentence and cannot stand alone. A dependent clause by itself is called a fragment.

Example: When the rains stopped coming and the soil blew away

The following words often begin a dependent clause: when, after, because, before, if, and although.

①

Identify each of the following clauses as independent (I) or dependent (D).

1. when Mr. Jones yelled _____
2. my aunt enjoys the opera _____
3. unless it comes today _____
4. although I lost the library book _____
5. they're going on a picnic _____
6. mom found her keys in the drawer _____
7. when the movie is over _____
8. we're planning to have a party _____

2

Circle the dependent clause and underline the independent clause.

1. After the storm passed, we played in the puddle.
2. The plants dried out before the rain came.
3. When lightning strikes, we must go inside.
4. Get to higher ground before the flood comes.
5. If you hear thunder, it will probably rain.
6. Although a great deal of rain fell, the storm moved on quickly.
7. We will go outside after the sun comes out.
8. Before the dust storm came, we heard the wind howling.
9. The rain may turn to snow when the temperature drops.
10. Because the land was so dry, we could not dig holes.

3

Match the independent clauses to the correct dependent clauses.

1. Stacy has lived in 10 different countries
2. When I finish my homework
3. Billy does not like tomatoes
4. I can't stop laughing
5. If you think it will help you
6. Sandy likes to read mysteries

- a. when he makes that silly face.
- b. you should take the advanced math course.
- c. because she wants to be a detective.
- d. even though he eats them on burgers.
- e. because her dad is in the army.
- f. I'll study for my exam.