

Read the text (on paper), understand everything, then answer to the questions.
Try not to be too short.

What is the main message the text conveys about interactions with people?

Why is it mentioned that it's not always possible to ignore unpleasant people?

What are some ways to make yourself pleasant to others?

What is the significance of the phrase "treat others as you want others to treat you"?

Why does the text advise against waiting for others to be nice before being nice yourself?

In your own words, explain why being nice and good is essential.

Why is it normal for people not to like each other?

Explain why being nice and pleasant is deemed useful.