

Bob the Robot

Once upon a time, in a world where robots roamed, there lived a little robot named Bob. Bob wasn't like the other robots. While they were big and made of metal, Bob was small and made of shiny silver.

One day, Bob went on an adventure. It was a _____ and stormy night when Bob saw something strange.

_____ up on a hill, there was a _____ statue made of _____. But this statue wasn't _____. It was moving!

Bob approached the statue and saw that it wasn't a statue at all. It was a robot! But this robot wasn't like the others. It was broken and needed assistance.

With a small number of clicks and whirs, Bob _____ the robot up. The robot was _____ and explained that it had been _____ away because it was unlike the other robots. But Bob didn't mind.

Together, Bob and the other robot went on an adventure. They met other robots and assisted them too. Soon, they had _____ a _____ friends.

Soon, the _____ in the town began to see that even though the robots were different, they were also nice and kind. And from that day on, Bob and its friends were _____ as heroes.