The Internet is very entertaining. Chatting with friends, playing computer games, sending e-mails, and surfing the net are now our favorite free time activities. But there are some essential things to think about when you are on the computer at home or at school:

- You should never give private information such as your name, home address, school name, or telephone number to strangers.
- Be careful – never chat with people you do not know.
- Never send your photo to someone without your parents' permission.
- Do not respond to messages when you feel uncomfortable or afraid.
- You should never try to meet someone you know from the Internet.
- Ask your parents for help when you don't know what to do.
