Power

We are (1) to many different forms of power. There are those forms of power that exist by law: the right of the government to (2) laws on a country and to (3) what we are allowed to do. There is also the right of courts to (4) people to appear to stand trial or to give evidence. There is also, of course, power on a more personal level. People are constantly struggling for power and social status. This might take the form of attempting to (5) a conversation, something that is relatively easy to (6) since it is so obvious. It is more difficult to (7) ourselves from other forms of social power. When we are (8) as 'this' or 'that' by other people and put into a category, that too is a form of power. Bosses at work might (9) their employees by making them work long hours. A parent might (10) their child's self-confidence with constant criticism. Power is everywhere and the more you understand it, the more you may be able to control it.

Crime and punishment

The demand for prison (1) has steadily increased as more and more people have come to see that locking people up in (2) simply doesn't reduce crime. Not only does it fail to act as a (3), but it does very little to help (4) readjust to life back in the (5) after they have served their time. Prisons are isolated places, where prisoners learn from other criminals, and where bullying, bribery and other forms of (6) spread. Once outside prison, offenders face (7), which tends to force them back into a life of crime. Even once the (8) recognises the need for change, it is notoriously slow. It usually demands new (9) to change the system, and while the slow processes of (10) go on, more and more lives are affected.

Phrases, patterns and collocations

I Write one word in each gap.

The Hoody

The hooded top, or 'hoody', has become something of a symbol of youth crime in Britain. It seems to get a mention whenever the newspapers get (1) the subject. Those wearing them are often classed (2) yobs or hooligans, even when they have done nothing (3) the law. The problem is that hoodies can easily hide their identity from CCTV cameras. Those (4) authority in some places such as shopping centres have even gone so far as to ban people wearing hoodies. They claim that the threat of crime (5) them the right to do it, but there is a danger that young people will actually be provoked (6) behaving in antisocial ways through rules like this. They may feel that those (7) power are discriminating against them, and that they refuse to listen when they deny (8) done anything wrong. It seems to be a classic example (9) older people feeling threatened by the fashions of the young. At the end of the day, what the members of their peer (10) think will always be more important to the young than what people running shopping centres think they should or shouldn't wear.

A Reader Writes ...

We have all had the experience, I am sure, of feeling (1) in the face of civil servants. All nations need bureaucrats, but too many have become (2) and inflexible. While some carry out their jobs (3), others apply the letter of the law but not the spirit, and behave in an (4) manner, relying on computers and rules to tell them what is (5) and what is not. The number of civil servants has increased (6) under this current government, which I believe is a good
(7) of where their priorities lie. I agree with Jack Turner
(Letters, 16th May) that it is a (8) waste of taxpayers' money and I find his argument that we only need one third of them very (9) indeed. We in this country have (10) the biggest civil service in this part of the world and it is time something was done about it.

Yours sincerely,
A. P. Kennedy (Mrs)
