<h3>Taking care of animals</h3> By Lara Wild animals are very special, but do you know they can get ill just like us? Last week my school went on a trip to a rainforest in Iquitos, Peru. We hiked and visited a rescue centre where people take care of injured animals. Do you know that toucans sometimes bruise their wings? Monkeys might fall from trees and break a leg, too. Injured animals feel pain and might need medicine, so vets at the rescue centre help them all. When we arrived, a vet was taking care of a sloth. Someone found it on a road and took it to the centre. Vets will keep the sloth safe and help it go back home. The rainforests are very important and vets keep all the animals healthy. I think it's a very interesting job!
