Jake: Okay, Katie. Let's talk about your family.

Katie: Sure!

Jake: In your family, who gets up _____?

Katie: My mom gets up early every day.

Jake: What time does she _____?

Katie: My mom gets up at 4 o'clock in the morning.

Jake: That's crazy!

Katie: But she also goes to bed very early.

Jake: What time?

Katie: She goes to bed at 7 o'clock.

Jake: Wow! At seven?

Katie: At 7 o'clock every day.

Jake: Is everyone _____ in the family?

Katie: Oh, no, no, no, no.

Jake: Wow, that's _____! Okay, so who stays up _____?

Katie: Uh, probably me and my brother. We always _____ late.

Jake: Yeah, how late?

Katie: Well, when we were younger, we stayed up until 11 o'clock, which when you're a five or six year old that's very late.

Jake: That is very late. Wow! What about TV? Who _____ a lot of TV?

Katie: My dad. My dad watches a lot of TV!

Jake: Oh yeah? What does he watch?

Katie: He watches sports TV programs... He watches _____ programs... He watches everything!

Jake: Okay. Yeah sounds like my dad. Now my dad falls asleep in front of the TV a lot.

Katie: Mine too!

Jake: Really?

Katie: Yeah!

Jake: Okay, who _____ the house?

Katie: Sometimes me and my brother will help clean the house, but mostly it's my mom.

Jake: Oh right. Same! I think it's the same in everybody's house.

Katie: I think so, too.

Jake: I know, poor mom!

Katie: Yeah.

Jake: Well, similarly, who _____ for the family? I bet it's your mom.

Katie: Nope, actually it's my dad!

Jake: Really? oh great!

Katie: My dad is a _____.

Jake: Ooh, nice!

Katie: So he's very good at cooking _____.

Jake: Oh, what does he cook?

Katie: Lots and lots of _____. Lots of British food. So... a roast beef or fish and chips...
Lots of British food.

Jake: I lived in England for one year and I love Sunday roast!

Katie: Oh, me too.

Jake: It's so good!

Katie: I wish it was _____ roast every day.

Jake: I know. Okay, in your family who does the shopping?

Katie: Who do you think does the shopping in my family?

Jake: Your mother.

Katie: Of course! Yeah!

Jake: Oh, wow.

Katie: I don't think my mother would be happy if my dad did the shopping.

Jake: Why?

Katie: My dad buys too many silly _____ that we don't need.

Jake: Okay, I gotcha. All right, who makes you _____?

Katie: Definitely, my dad makes me laugh.

Jake: Oh yeah, how?

Katie: Um... my dad makes me laugh a lot. His sense of humor is very different to mine, so when he says a _____ and nobody laughs, that makes me laugh.

Jake: Oh right! Yeah, that's funny. So, sometimes we _____ with people. Who argues with you sometimes?

Katie: Not sometimes, all the time! I argue with my brother.

Jake: Oh really?

Katie: Yes!

Jake: What do you argue about?

Katie: Everything! Everything! We're very _____ people.

Jake: Okay, for example?

Katie: It can be even small things like the color T-shirt that someone is wearing, we will argue about it.

Jake: Right. That sounds like my sisters. So, I have two older sisters. I never fight with either sister. Never! But my sisters fight all the time! Yeah, they love fighting.

Katie: I love fighting my brother.

Jake: Okay, so in your family, who _____ you out a lot?

Katie: Um... I hope that we help each other out a lot. I don't think one person helps a lot of people. We all help each other.

Jake: Oh, wow. That sounds great! Thanks Katie!

Katie: Thanks!
